PROCEDURAL GUIDANCE FOR DoD CI SUPPORT TO THE COMBATANT COMMANDS AND THE DEFENSE AGENCIES

E3.1.1. The DoD CI mission is to provide the DoD Components with the necessary CI support to gather information and conduct activities protecting against espionage and other intelligence activities, sabotage, international terrorist activities, or assassinations conducted for, or on behalf of, foreign powers, organizations, or persons in the following ways:

E3.1.1.1. CI support for protecting DoD personnel, facilities, operations, research, critical technology, and critical infrastructure against foreign intelligence service, terrorist, or other overt, covert, or clandestine threats shall be provided on a worldwide basis utilizing the CI functions of investigations, operations, collection, analysis, production, and services.

E3.1.1.2. Centralized direction and control of the CI organizations of the Military Departments and their worldwide activities are necessary to ensure compliance with U.S. Attorney General procedures, with national coordination requirements of the Director of Central Intelligence, and other U.S. Governmental Departments and/or Agencies, and with Executive Branch and congressional oversight requirements.

E3.1.1.3. The priorities for, and activities required to provide, CI support may vary according to the area of operation, absence or level of hostilities, nature of the military mission, composition of forces, tactics, and techniques employed.

E3.1.1.4. The warning of threats to DoD personnel, facilities, critical technology, infrastructure, operations and research is CI collection's highest priority. CI collection responds to requirements of the supported commander and national interests. Many of those requirements are derived from analysis of CI collections.

E3.1.1.5. CI operations, as defined in Director of Central Intelligence Directive 5/1 and the classified annex of the "Agreement Governing the Conduct of Defense Department CI Activities in Conjunction with the Federal Bureau of Investigation" (references (f) and (g)), are coordinated at the Military Department and national levels. The Military Departments centrally direct and control these operations.

E3.1.1.6. The Military Departments shall direct and control CI investigations, as defined in reference (c), for their respective Military Service(s), the Combatant Commands, and the Defense Agencies when assigned Lead Agency responsibilities. Commanders at all levels and the Directors of the Defense Agencies shall ensure compartmenting and protecting investigative information and techniques associated with those investigative activities.

E3.1.2. Defense Agencies shall receive counterintelligence support from the CI organization of the Service that has been designated as the Lead Agency for that organization (see enclosure 4). Combatant Command general CI support Lead Agencies are listed in enclosure 5. Other DoD Components not listed in enclosures 4 and 5 shall receive general CI support through a MOA with one of the Military Department CI organizations.

E3.1.2.1. Except when there is a Presidential or Secretary of Defense-directed execution of a military plan or operation order that specifies that operational control of Military Department CI elements is assumed by the Combatant Commander, each Military Department shall determine the command and control requirements for their CI assets consistent with Military Department mission requirements. Under all circumstances, law enforcement and CI investigations and attendant matters remain part of the Military Department's responsibilities. Likewise, in all circumstances, the Combatant Commands shall exercise coordinating authority over supporting CI elements.

E3.1.2.2. Supporting CI organizations, through the CISO, shall ensure that Combatant Commands are expeditiously informed of any force protection threats including foreign intelligence and terrorist activities that may adversely impact joint military plans, operations, personnel or facilities or may jeopardize life or property, involve foreign policy, embarrass the U.S. Government, or have other significant consequences.

E3.1.2.3. CI activities within a Combatant Command's area of interest shall be conducted according to the Combatant Command's priorities. These activities shall be coordinated through the Combatant Command's assigned CISO.

E3.1.3. Upon a Presidential or Secretary of Defense-directed execution of a military plan or order, CI organizations designated in the order to support the Joint Force Commander shall come under the operational control of the Joint Force Commander through the respective component commander or as otherwise stipulated in the order. The Secretaries of the Military Departments shall retain responsibility for law enforcement, CI investigations, and attendant matters. Assigned CI units shall continue to support their Military Department as part of the Combatant Command's force structure. That structure shall provide the Combatant Commands with a complete component package containing its own specialized CI support elements. Also, those CI units shall provide, as required, support to the JTF or the Combatant Command's headquarters.

E3.1.4. A Combatant Command shall operationally control CI units that participate in role-playing exercises during joint exercises within their AOR. CI units providing non-exercise real world collection, operations, and investigative coverage shall retain normal peacetime command relationships. The requirements of subparagraph E3.1.2.2., above, apply in all circumstances.

E3.1.5. Regardless of command and control arrangements, supporting Military Department CI organizations shall satisfy the CI requirements of the Combatant Commands and the Defense Agencies. In instances where the Combatant Commands and Military Department CI organizations, or two or more Combatant Commands cannot resolve disagreements over requirements they shall refer the issue through the Joint CI Office,(J2 CI), to the J2, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, to coordinate and deconflict. The Defense Agencies shall coordinate disagreements over priorities and requirements through CIFA. The USD(I) is the final authority for resolving disagreements.
